ALBANY, New York, USA (Sept. 19, 2013) – Thriller author A.C. Frieden arrived in Albany, New York for the 44th Bouchercon (the Anthony Boucher Memorial World Mystery Convention), the largest crime fiction conference attracting authors and fans from around the world. This year’s four-day conference is held at the Empire State Plaza in downtown Albany. “This is my second Bouchercon, and the first since signing my book deal with Down & Out Books,” said Frieden. “I’m excited to see old friends and make new ones in this vibrant gathering of crime writers and fans—which, ironically, is just across the street from New York State’s legislature and near some of state’s key law enforcement agencies.”
